THE SCANDAL TRIAL

Review of the Week's Proceedings.

THE DEFENCE WELL SUSTAINED.

The forthcoming week will witness a new phase in the Tilton-Beecher trial. Mr. Beecher will be a witness probably on Wednesday morning. The tagrag and bobtail of witnesses are nearly exhausted. Bessie Turner, the pending witness for the defence, will have to undergo a sharp crossexamination. It is estimated by the people who manage the trial that enough of ground will be cleared away by the middle of the week to make room for Mr. Beecher to appear and testify. Mr. Beecher as a witness is looked forward to with intense curiosity. He will either make or unmake the case. His testimony will be the pivotal point that all the world will wait for and decide the merits of the trial for good or ill. The majority of people trust that Mr. Beecher will acquit nimself, that he will explain his remarkable letters in a way that will win him the gratulatory sympathies of a whole nation when he descends from the witness

So far, unfortunately for the defence, the witnesses have not been as positively forcible on the side they testified for as the previous witnesses summoned by the plaintiff proved in their capa-city. The management of the trial undoubtedly proves superior ability on the plaintiff's side. There may be superior lawyers in America to Messrs. Fullerton and Beach, but no two men could have done one whit more than they have viction and triumph. Perhaps no two men the whole history of legal practice have worked in such conjoint strength toward one end. Beach supplies what Fullerton omits. and while the one excels in cross-examination the other towers upward in the wondrous clearness of his interdependent arguments. Fullerton is an amazing cross-examiner. Beach is a strikingly vigorous logician. Fullerton, in cross-exam ining the assistant pastor. Halliday, showed his genius most effectively. People in the court room were disposed to listen to assistant pastor Halliday with good-natured patience. They saw in him an old man, deputed to fill the Plymouth church pulpit in the absence of THE GREAT PASTOR.

an old man with a good deal of fuss and pretenion, harmless and vain, a trifle suggestive of Polonius, who would insist upon advising the Danish Prince, and was run through the body for his pains. Under the cross-examination this old man over-eloquent, in place of being as the mind was think from the easy, simple flow of his direct examination—a witness of impressive bearing—proved to be a man of tough veracity, who contradicted himself and revealed a business character that contrasted strangely with his reputation as an assistant pastor to Mr. Beecher. Still the week was a favorable one for the desence.

ONE STRONG WITNESS,
fom Cooke, the newspaper correspondent, made strong point against the plaintiff in testifying that Tilton and the Woodhull both urged him to write for the Golden Age and the Woodhull de Clostin paper and work up the scandal.

A great point in the plaintiff's statement was that he labored day in and day out to keep the world ignorant of Mr. Beecher's alleged in amy. Gooke's evidence shows that however inclined filton may have been to pursue this poley, so far as he (filton) was concerned, he was willing enough to give the details to the world, provided to could be done through the medium of some sensational reporter as he believed Cooke to be. Tilton, of course, was not to be known in the matter. Cooke would take all the responsibility upon himself. This evidence went further. It invited the unference that the famous Woodhuil scanada publication was the inspiration directly or indirectly of filton himself. The most important witness of the week was certainly Cooke. He proved that Tilton and Woodhuil were in collusion, and that Tilton and woodhuil were in collusion, and that Tilton and continue the seeking to suppress the scandal, sought every means to give it to the world through some other bands than his own. world ignorant of Mr. Beecher's alleged inlamy.

Bessie Turner is relied on by the defence to show a condition of relations between Tilion and list wife that would justify either in going out from the common household and practising free leve. The weakness of an argument that aims to impeach Tilion's virtue or that of his wife to exculpate Beecher is apparent, but it is impossible to conceal the effect on the jury. The jury will be called on to render a verdict of $100,000 in lavor of the plaintiff; but if this evidence is designed to show that the one principal in the action is no better than the other and there is proof that the one who charges adultery is guilty of adultery hisself, then, indeed, the damages may be calculated in a different light. Miss bessie Turner gave evidence that was directed entirely toward affecting this question of damages. The gist of high this question of damages. The gist of her evidence is embraced in the following excerpt. See relates how Tilton came into her hedroom one night in his night clothes, and she says "he (Tilton) placed his hand on my neck; I took his hand off; he said, why, he said, those caresses are all right; there are Bessie, my dear, now paintuity modest you are; be said, those caresses are all right; there are people in the best society who do an these things; it is perfectly proper, and it is only people of impure minds who believe that things like that are not right; I replied that I could not belp what was the custom in the best classes of society; that I had my own ideas of propriety and mo esty; that I had my own ideas of propriety and mo esty; that I was going to carry them out; that I did not believe it was proper for him to put his hand on my neck, and that I would not permit him to do it; he then laid down and asked me if I would not like to be married; I asked him, what in the work put that in your nead? he replied that I was a nice and affectionate girl, that I ought to be married and that I ought to have a good husband; I said that I supposed when the time came and the right man presented himself perhaps I would get married, but that I had not thought about it then; that the thought had not troubled me and that I did not regard this as the chief end in hie; I said that I did not regard this as the chief end in hie; I said that II did not think people had affinitives for each other; I asked him what he meant by affinities, and he said the meaning of it was that when a man saw a woman be loved she should be his affinity; that they should live touether as man and wite; ne said that he loved me; that it was right and proper he should caress me, and that no harm should come to me; I dissented from all this; se said was a strange child and had some singular ideas; that he loved me; that it was right and proper he should caress me, and that no harm should come to me; I dissented from all this; ne said I was a strange child and had some singular ideas; in the summer of 1858, when Horace Greeley was making them a visit, I was there on a visit; I had gone to bed, and was awakened by seeing a tail man standing over me; I had gone to bed in my own room, and found myself in Mr. Thiton's room; I said, 'What have you been doing? I said he should not have taken the herry with me in the absence of his wiie; he said, 'I found myself i onely and wanted you to love me;' I got up and left the room, went to my own room and locked the door. (Sensation.) Next morning, after breakfast, I left the house and went to another house.'

Besse Turner's evidence, at the utmost, will go to show that the plaintiff to this action does not come into court with clean hands. I hat is all. Now it remains for Mr. Beccher 10 prove has own innocence, and when he does that the world will be satisfied and rejoiced.

Mr. Augustus Docharty, son of Professor Gorardus B. Docharty, of the New York College, was gesterday appointed contract clerk in the Department of Public Works by General Fitz John Potter. The appointment is the first made by General Potter since he took charge of the Department of Public Works and is a good indication of flow he proposes to conduct the department. Mr. Docharty for some time past had held a position in the department, and his promotion is r. deserved acknowledgment of his fidenty and ability. For three Years previously he was a clerk in the Central National Bark, which institution he left, bringing with him fine very highest recommendations of its officers. Mr. Docharty is an active democrat of the Twenty-first ward and a member of the Tammany Society. Having graduated in the New York Free Academy, he has ever since been making steady progress in every department of life in which he has chosen to engage. His gentiemantly demeanor and courteous manners, with the marked ability he has displayed, render him eminently suited to the responsible position for which the present Commissioner of Public Works has selected him. He is the successor of Mr. Barker, whose resignation was attended with a high encombium from Mr. Van Nort, to which was added a high personal compliment from General Porter.

APPROACH OF THE ROWING SEASON.

THE HARLEM RIVER CLEAR OF ICE-BOATING TALK OF BOATING MEN-THE PROSPECTS OF THE COMING SPRING AND SUMMER-THE PRO-POSED REGATTA OF THE BOYS OF OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS. The annual contest of the eights of the two great English universities was rowed yesterday on the Thames, and victory, which for years has been denied the Oxonians, has at length perched upon their colors. These contests have since their inauguration, in 1829, always been looked forward to with considerable interest by boating men, not only on the other side, but also here; and more particularly here, since boating has come to be regarded as one of our most popular sports. The English race may be regarded as a kind of prologue to the aquatic play on the waters, which commences in the spring of the year and only terminates when winter's stormy blasts compel the disciples of the oar to hang up their shells and put aside their sculis. After the discussion of the race subsides boating men will, as naturally as a duck takes to the water, begin to talk boat, canvass the prospects of the coming season and converse on the probabilities of what the season may bring forth. Already in the boat houses of the Hariem River signs of the approaching season are evident. Last Sunday the river was pearly clear of ice up to Macomb's Dam Bridge. The Gramercy on that day sent out a shell, the Nautilus a pair-oared gig and the Friendships visited the New Settlement in a six-cared barge. The New York Rowing Club have already had a crew on the water. This looks like business on the part of the New York boys. Ingersoli, with his crew, won the grand challenge plate of the Harlem Regatta Association, and their early appearance on the river looks as if he intends to make a boid effort to retain the prize another year. Nearly all the clubs on the Harlem have selected their officers for the present year, and so soon as the weather settles the captains of the various clubs will commence to make their selection of men for the crews to represent their respective clubs in the several regattas. The Harlem Regatta Association has had its annual meeting and elected its board of officers for the year. Harry Meeker, of board of officers for the year. Harry Meeker, of the Athletic Club, was unanimously re-elected Presudent; Mr. Scott, of the New York Rowing Club, is Vice President, and Richard Neville, of the Nauthlus Club, takes the place of Henry Knapp, of the Barlem Rowing Club, as Secretary and Treas-urer. The clubs now composing the Regatta Asso-ciation are the Athletic, Dauntiess, Gramercy, New York Rowing, Harlem, Nauthlus and Nassau. The Atalanta, it is to be regretted, withdrew from the association last year, and in all probability will not re-enter it this season at least. The day for the annual regatta has not yet been fixed. As the month of June is lavored by most of the delegates some day in the latter part of that month will be chosen.

month of June's lavored by most of the delegates some day in the latter part of that month will be chosen.

From different parts of the country it is ascertained that the prospects of the rowing season were never brighter. New clubs are forming and the older clubs are being strengthened by fresh accessions to their rolls of members. On the Schuykill, the coming season, indications are good for rowing. The Navy, anxious to strengthen its organization and promote greater unity on the part of the boat clubs located on the river banks in Fairmount Park, has extended an invitation to the Bachelors and Vespers to "come in" and take their former places in the Schuykill navy. This is a move in the right direction. There is little doubt, if all the Phisacelphia clubs were enrolled under the flag of the Navy, an excellent lour might be gathered from the clubs composing it for the struggle in 1876, during the Centennial season. Commodore Ferguson's arrangement while he was abroad last year, to have some of the best crews of England, Sociand, Ireland and France visit here during our Centennial celebration, is a good one; but it is to be hoped that when the crews come from the clues side American oarsmen will be prepared to give them a warm reception, and be asset to plt against them jours and pairs and singles worthy of their best skill in the contest for the honor of victory.

Saratoga, again selected by the colleges for the undergraduates' races, will also be enlivened still later in the year by the Saratoga regatta, in which crews from all parts of the country will try their skill and prove their provess at the oar. If the Saratogians will only run a failread from the village to the lake, and thus save visitors from the extortionate charges of hackmen and other proprietors of conveyances, they will do much to render their beautiful lake the great national rowing water of the country, it is, without doubt, the best sheet of water in the land for regattas in which many boats are to confest. Plenty of room, good water, no tied as soon as possible.

The National Association of Amateur Oarsmen have for the second time selected the Troy course for their annual regatta, and the date of that event will correspond so as to give an opportunity for those who enter for Saratoga to the tunity for those who enter for Savatoga to try their fuck also on the Laureate course.
Oakiand Beach, Seneca Lake, the Schuyikill River, and, possibly, an open regatta in the fail on the Harlem, are a few among the many aquatic events to which the attention of boating men will snortly be directed, and for which preparaons will be accordingly made.

Additional interest will be also given to boating Additional interest will be also given to boating this year in the proposition made by Mr. Harry C. Jarrett to the Board of Education for a grand regarta for the pupils of public schools be accepted. The proposition is a good one, and ons already created much interest among the boys, as may be seen from the accompanying letter from the pupils of one of the schools:—

New York, March 19, 1875.

To Mr. Jarrett:—We, the pupils of Grammar School No. 31, in Broome street, would like to practice our rowing in a safe place, and therefore ask you to procure for ustile right to use the big pond in Central Park. The scannic is now about over, and you might get the newspapers to demand the privilege. There are plenty of good boats on the pond which would do for training burposes. Respectancy.

COCKING MAIN ON LONG ISLAND.

Though different parts of Long Island are selected for cocking mains the preference is generally given to Long Island City. On Friday last the lovers of this sport assembled at a well-known sporting rendezvous in Blissville, among whom vere representatives from New York city, Westchester and Brooklyn. A report was circulated that Bergh's men had anticipated them, but precautions were so taken that only the knowing ones could gain admittance, and when once admitted they lelt secure, as the pit was located un-

Fifteen couples were matched, Long Island winning the main by three. New York were the favorites, and odds of $100 to 880 were freely offered on their success. The main lasted six hours.

LISTEN TO THIS, MR. POSTMASTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-The Postmaster has called into abeyance his recent order concerning the increased charge on third class mail matter; but, nevertheless, a large quantity, stamped at the old rates, and the only rates we knew anything about, has been toricited and gone to destruction. I mailed an epic poem on "The Third Term" (open at both epic poem on "The Third Term" (open at both ends), and on account of the subject the packet was neavy, but it bore its foil complement of stamps, as I supposed. Now that epic is lost for ever, and a finer composition was never penned. The same late beigh my "Ode to General Butler" and the manuscript of a five volume novel based upon the Brooklyn business. Either one of these productions would have given me a rank among the foremost writers of the age. Being composed daring periods of inspiration and of "mental strain" they cannot be reproduced. Have I no redress? As Mr. Toots observed to the "Chicken," "It's mean, that's what it is; it's mean!" A VICTIM.

BROOKLYN.

The receipts for taxes last week amounted to $38, 213, 958. There were 460 persons arrested by the police in Brooklyn during the past week. Relief for the "outdoor poor" will be discontinued on April 1. The number of able-bodied male inmates of the Almshouse will also be reduced on and after that date. N. F. Waring, a lawyer, made a motion before Judge Pratt, in the Supreme Court, yesterday, to vacate an order of arrest issued on the complaint of A. W. Barbeck for alleged fraudulent conversion of a mortgage.

Mrs. Maxwell, the abortionist, who is held upon the verdict of the jury in the case of Antoinetta

An investigation touching the charge which was recently made against the quality of the coninstitution was held yesterday. D. W. Canfield, the manufacturer of the milk, testified that the milk he sold the county was made in June, 1873; it was not made different from any other milk, but because it is old they do not sell it to the reguler trade.

LONG ISLAND.

The regular Democratic City Convention of Long Island City meets on the 27th inst., the "Noble" wing of the democracy on the 23d, and Queens County Democratic Association to-morrow. The residents of Long Island City still suffer for the want of gas, the quality now given being utterly unfit for use. As the lamps in the streets are nightly unlighted they dread to leave their houses alter dark. It is understood that a suit has been commenced against the Soutgern Railroad Company on behalf of the widow of Benjamin Carman, a brakeman, killed at the disaster on the Hempstead branch, on the 3d of February, to recover $5,000.

Several of the summer residences in the vicinity of Babylon have recently been entered by unknown persons. So far as known, nothing of value has been taken, but the intruders have merciy gone through the houses, in some cases only leaving doors and windows open. It is supposed that they may have been "prospecting" in advance of the season.

The New York Board of Health having complained that offensive and deleterious odors were wafted across the river to the great detriment of the residents of the city, the Brooklyn Board of Health upon investigation have found that the chief cause of the complaint was the manufe ounpings of the Long Island Railroad, the milk stables of a Mr. Henry, the swine pens and ren-dering and lertilizing works of Newtown Creek,

It is reported that Mr. George W. Bergen, Treasurer of Queens county, will refuse to pay the increase of salary recently voted to the Judge and Surrogate by the Board of Supervisors, on the ground that the salaries of these two officials are fixed by legislative enactment, and that the Supervisors have no power or authority in the premises. The question will accordingly soon probably occupy the attention of the courts through writs of mandamas.

Samuel Swith and Isaac Ketcham, of Melville,

Lewis did not appear to prosecute, and the cases were dismissed by Justice Bennett, or Jamaica, before whom they were brought. Lewis subsequently swore out warrants against the above named persons and four others, charging them with petit larceny, and they were arrested, but discharged upon their own recognizances to appear on Friday before Justice Bennet, when, for the second time, the plaintiff tailed to put in an appearance, and it is understood that the detendants propose to suc Lewis for malicious prosecution. The storm was very severe along the east shore of Staten Island yesterday morning, and there was considerable floating ice in the lower bay. Seven large square-rigged vessels were riding at another off Tompkinsville, At a meeting of the citizens of Marshland and vicinity at the Post Office, called to discuss the matter of the proposed change of name, it was decided to call the place Green Ridge, the boundaries extending from Valley Forge to Gifford's lane, in the town of Westfield. There came near being a serious accident on the Staten Island Railroad yesterday morning. The early train from the Clifton landing was nearing the switch at Eitingville, and, owing to the the switch at Eitingviie, and, owing to the accumulation of ice and snow, the switch could not be adjusted. The locomotive, with the train, left the track in consequence, and the road was blocken so that the eight and nine o'clock trains from Totienville could not pass. The passengers by those two trains due not reach New York until one o'clock. Many passengers from New Dorp and other stations hired conveyances or walked to the landing.

Henry Martin, watchman of the Coast Wrecking Company's works at Stapleton, picked up the body terday. The deceased was five teet eight inches in height, had black bair and was dressed in dark in height, had black hair and was dressed in dark gray cloth coat and panisloons, with blue shirt and army shoes. In the bockets were found a penkhile and a photograph of the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. The body had evidently been in the water a long time, as it was much decomposed. Coroner Dempsey, of New Brighton, held an inquest, and the verdict of the jury was "found drowned." Mr. dats, the undertaker at Stapleton, buried the remains in the Richmond County Poorhouse grounds.

Three boys, from thirteen to sixteen years of age, of respectable families, have been arrested at Ramsey's, Bergen county, and held to ball for criminally assaulting a girl ten years of age, a daugnter of a neighbor, who is severely injured. The Board of Public Works of Jersey City, which played so important a part in the perpetration of municipal trauds four years ago, when all its members were indicted, is now nearly defunct. Mr. H. H. Newkirk, the clerk, has tendered his resignation. As no public work is in progress the Commissioners simply hold sinecures.

After long repeated efforts the channel up Newark Bay has been opened for navigation. The accumulation of ice was so great that the bridge of the Central Railroad was partially damaged. Several piles were broken or displaced, so that the company had to abandon the use of one track, causing great delay in transportation.

The alleged charges of attempted bribery involving two members of the Legislature-Messra. sheeran and Gill-have caused great excitement in Jersey City and Elizabeth, where the gentle-men reside. The investigation is set down for to-morrow night, at Trenton. Fourteen witnesses have been summoned to attend. Suits for slander and perjury are threatened.

The trial of Policemen Lott and Duncan for the killing of William Bagley at Jersey City has at last been set down peremptorily for to-morrow. officer Kelly, who was also arrested, was exouerated by the Grand Jury. At the close of this trial French, the secretary of the bogus Palisade Insurance Company, will be placed on trial. Secretary of State Kelsey will be the cuief witness.

The proposed bill for the consolidation of all the cities and towns of Hudson county will not be introduced in the Legislature, as a law is now in existence authorizing each municipality at any time to consolidate with any other, if no third mu-nicipal territory intervene. The question is to be determined by a vote of a majority of the citizens. Under this law Union ithi would have been an-nexed to Jersey City had not the people of West Hoboken voted otherwise.

A remarkable instance of courage in a servant girl came to light vesterday in the First District Police Court, Jersey City. A sneak thief, giving his name as William Mason, entered the residence of Mrs. Brann, No. 219 Fifth street, and was helping himself to some ciothing, when the girl, Mary Shea, unexpectedly interrupted him. She clung to the thicf till Mrs. Brann appeared, while Mason held on to two shawls and an umbrella. He was not permitted to escape till an officer arrived. Mason, who seemed anashed at being so discomitted by one of the weaker sex, was committed for trial.

ANOTHER VICTIM LAST NIGHT-PUBLIC INDIG-

As yet nothing has been done by either the railroad or city authorities to prevent the daily and hourly slaughter of human life and limb at the various crossings and unguarded depots within the city limits of Newark. Last even ing a man named John Myers, residing in New Brunswick and employed in Newark, had one leg cut off, the other badly lacerated. and altogether would have been ground to mincemeat but for the exertions of Oscar Bennett, a hackman. There being no gates or guards to prevent foolish people from springing on trains in rapid motion. Myers met his fate in an attempt to jump on board the rapidly-moving train. He was picked up a shocking spectacle and was removed to St. Michael's Hospital. There is little hope that he will survive. Meanwhile public indignation is increasing to such a degree over the shameless negligence of the railroad authorities in the premises that a public mass meeting is seriously taked of. Properly owners along the line of the railroads are strongly opposed to the creation of gates and lences as, they say, the latter would drive property valuation to the corners whereas, as the roads are now open, the entire blocks are evenly valued. The health authorities of Endson county have addressed a letter to the Newark Coroner stating that during County Poysician Stout's term of office there has been but one death caused by an accinent at a railroad crossing, and that one occurred in Hoboken at the point of intersection of the Weehawken branch of the Eric Railway and First street, where there was no gate.

The Common Council special committee have held several meetings, but as yet have arrived at no definite plan of procedure. picked up a shocking spectacle and
